

When censoring programs, such as Howard Stern and others, I think you are losing sight of the freedoms granted in the United State Constitution, namely that of free speech. I personally do not watch Mr. Stern's show, though I have tuned into it to see what content is aired on his show. But I think I should have the choice to do so and not have that choice legislated.

Censorship is done under the guise of protecting children. Instead of censoring the airways, why not demand parents control what their children view on TV and listen to on the radio? Instead the conservative segment of our society would have the government do their job for them. Censorship is done under the guise of reducing violence and creating a more moral state. Morality can not be legislated. Individuals must be taught morality and values from childhood. Please allow all Americans to make the choices guaranteed to them by our forefathers.
